 Clemson's strong, silent type at defensive tackle has been anything but silent when it comes to hitting opposing players. The Tigers were fortunate to recruit one of Ohio's best in 1978 and he is continuing the tradition of excellent grid players from the Buckeye State. Kim Kelly profiles the All-America candidate.
- 7 Clemson Spirit
 There is nothing like a Clemson homecoming. The floats, the pageants, it's what college football is all about. Cricket Yates captures the traditions that make Clemson special this weekend and every weekend.
- 43 Tiger Superstitions
 You would not believe some of the unusual rituals that go on with the Tiger players, coaches and administrators in the hours leading up to a Clemson football game. Cricket Yates uncovers some of the more unusual habits of the defending national champions.
- 44 Clemson's Manhattan Project
 In what many ACC and Southern football fans consider to be America's most secretive ploy since the dropping of the A-bomb, Tim Bourret takes us back two years to the circumstances surrounding the development of the Orange Pants mystique.
- 57 49er Reunion
 While Clemson fans were rejoicing the Tigers' national championship last season on Saturdays, the enjoyment did not let up on Sundays as three former Tigers helped guide the San Francisco 49ers to the Super Bowl title. President Atchley and Danny Ford were involved in a Tiger celebration in California last May.
- 67 Tiger Bowl Victories
 The 1951 Orange Bowl was a "Sterling victory" for the Tigers, a one-point win over Miami of Florida. The 15-14 win was decided in a most unusual way. Jeff Rhodes talked with many players who witnessed the Tigers' third consecutive Bowl triumph.
- 93 University Feature
 Conditioning is a most important reason for Clemson's success on the gridiron and in any sport for that matter. It is even more important on the high school level where athletes learn the basics of the game and must learn the basics of conditioning. Carol Schwartz tells us a few things that should be known about proper treatment.
- 99 Joe Glenn
 He's certainly no Gamecock. That's Joe Glenn, who left the heart of Columbia to come to Clemson and be a key starter on last year's national championship team. Jeff Rhodes takes a look at Clemson's solid four-year defender from enemy territory.

Old Nemesis Returns

When Clemson fans first heard of Jerry Claiborne's decision to leave the University of Maryland for the Blue Grass of Kentucky, they rejoiced. Close followers of Clemson football over the last 10 years know of the Kentucky graduate's success over the Tigers during his tenure in College Park and it was a welcomed site to see him off the Clemson schedule. A check of the records further documents their initial happiness, which turned sour when fans rechecked Clemson's 1982 schedule.

Of all the opposing coaches who have matched wits more than once with the Tigers in the now famous "Death Valley" on the Clemson campus, no one has a higher winning percentage against the Tigers than Claiborne. In his 10 seasons at Maryland, Claiborne came to Tigertown five times and won on four occasions for an 80 percent mark. Additionally, he and Vince Dooley of Georgia (4-3) have tied for the most wins by an opposing coach at Clemson. And, overall he had an 8-2 record against Clemson for the Terrapins between 1972 and 1981.

Claiborne did not limit his success to contests against the Tigers, however. During his 10 seasons at Maryland he won the ACC three times and was a three-time ACC Coach-of-the-Year. In 1974 he was also named national Coach-of-the-Year by the Sporting News.

Now in his first season at Kentucky, Claiborne has not yet experienced a victory in his three-game career in the SEC, but the Wildcat athletic department did not exactly line up an easy debut season for the former Kentucky player of the forties and fifties. The Wildcats enter the game with an 0-2-1 record, losses to Kansas State (now 3-0), and perennial power Oklahoma, and a tie with Kansas last week. And, now he has to face the defending national champions.

Like all the teams he had at Maryland, Claiborne teams feature a stout defense that lines up in a wide-tackle six, the same defense Georgia uses. That will be an advantage for the Tigers today because they worked against the wide-tackle six in Athens and spent many weeks preparing for the defense in the fall drills.

Kentucky has four outstanding defenders who have adapted to the new defense, (at least a defense new to them). Andy Molls is the leader of the point prevention unit from his safety position as the

All-SEC player led all secondary players in tackles last year with 112, a figure that might have led all secondary players in the South. The all-around performer also set a Kentucky record for punt return yards in a season last year with 420.

Two junior linebackers lead the second wave of defense for Claiborne. Kevin McClelland and John Grimsley are two backers from Ohio who moved a few miles south to play for the neighboring state. Grimsley, of Canton, OH, had 153 tackles last season as a sophomore to lead the team. He has been a starter since his freshman season. McClelland, from football crazy Massillon, OH, where the local high school averages over 30,000 fans per game, was the second leading tackler last year with 141 stops. Both players have over 30 stops so far this season.

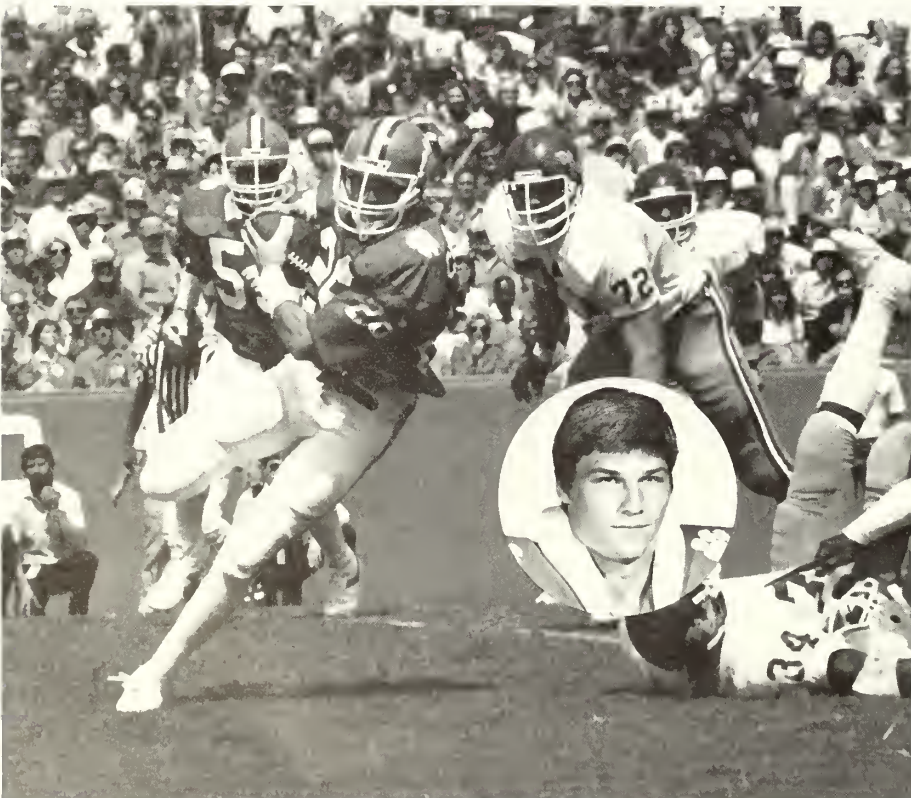

Efley Brooks is the leader of the down linemen. Despite an injury-plagued 1981 season in which he missed three games, Brooks, also a native of Ohio, led the team in quarterback sacks (8) and tackles for loss. The 6-1, 227 pounder played fullback in high school.

Offensively, Kentucky has had some problems moving the ball consistently. The ground game has averaged only 3.3 yards per carry so far this season, but tailback George Adams made great strides to alleviate that problem last week. The sophomore picked up 114 yards rushing in the 13-13 tie with Kansas to account for 61 percent of the Wildcats' total offensive yardage.

Running back Shawn Donigan was the most welcome surprise for Kentucky fans last week as he gained 47 yards in nine carries. Those are not Marcus Allenish totals, but they brought a smile to Claiborne because Donigan was the team's leading rusher in 1979 as a sophomore with over 800 yards. He was injured in 1980 and played only sparingly last year. He had only five yards in the first two games, but gained great confidence last week.

Randy Jenkins is the Kentucky quarterback, one of the few signal callers in the country who doubles as the team's punter. Watch out for the quick-kick! Jenkins has connected on 35 of 70 passes for 511 yards, he hit just under 50 percent as the starter last season. He hit 15-30 for 168 yards in Clemson's 21-3 win in Lexington last season.

That contest was a turning point for the Clemson offense last year. While most fans remember the Georgia win as the early season landmark game of the national Tim Childers set an ACC record last week with this 83-yard fumble return.

to Death Valley

By Tim Bourret

championship season, the second half of the Kentucky game was the contest in which the Tigers looked dominating on offense. Clemson scored 21 points in the second half and gained over 200 yards in total offense in the same time period.

Last Saturday in the Tigers' initial win of the season, the Clemson offense again showed signs of returning to last year's impressive demonstrations. But, just when Danny Ford's offense got going, they stifled themselves with four lost fumbles, and an interception. A penalty with a second and goal from the six-inch line was just like a turnover.

But, there were many positive aspects to Clemson's 21-10 victory over W. Carolina. After gaining only 62 yards and averaging less than two yards per play in the third quarter of the first two games, the Tigers came out elating in the third period last Saturday and gained 131 yards in 18 plays, not to mention the scoring of a pair of touchdowns by Chuck McSwain.

Clemson ran the tailback 41 times for 177 yards as Cliff Austin, Chuck McSwain and Terrence Flagler all ran with good effort. Austin gained over 90 yards for the second straight week and now has 1,301 yards rushing for his career. McSwain scored both of Clemson's second-half touchdowns, his 18th and 19th career TDs, and moved into the top 10 in career scoring at Tigertown. Flagler, only a freshman, isn't ranked on any list yet, but his healthy six-yard average over the last couple of weeks, leads us to believe he will be among the elite some day.

Defensively, Clemson was on the field an abnormal amount of plays in the first half. Many of the players must have thanked George Dostal and Danny Ford for the fine preseason conditioning program used by the Tigers, because most defenses would have run out of gas in the second half after being on the field for 47 plays in the initial 30 minutes. But Clemson limited Western Carolina to 85 yards in total offense in the second half.

Many individuals stood out on defense. Tim Childers, who missed most of the Boston College game, had the spectacular play of the game as he rambled about 120 yards on a fumble return that officially goes in the books as an 83-yard return. The return certainly will go in the books, as it broke the ACC mark for the longest fumble return by 30 yards. The previous ACC high was set by Doug Jones of Virginia, who went 53 yards in a similar situation against N.C. State on October 12, 1974.

Johnny Rembert is another player who excelled in the Western Carolina game. The senior linebacker picked off two passes and ran them back 45 yards, and deflected two others to help limit the Catamount aerial attack. Rembert's 45 interception return yards were the most by a Clemson player since Willie Underwood earned his entire four-year scholarship with two interceptions for 101 return yards against South Carolina in 1980.

Terry Kinard was a third Tiger to distinguish himself on defense as he picked off another pass, the 14th of his illustrious career. The Sumter, SC native needs only one more to tie Fred Knoebel, who played with the Tigers between 1950 and 1952. It was his third of the year as he has picked off an enemy pass in each of the first three games.

All in all, Clemson looked impressive in the second half against Western Carolina. The offense gained over 200 yards and scored two touchdowns, while the defense shut out the opposition and held the Catamounts to 85 yards in total offense. Danny Ford's team will have to pick up where it left off if the club hopes to register its 10th straight game without a loss in Memorial Stadium and a second straight win against an old nemesis.

Clemson's Strong, Silent Type

By Kim Kelly

According to a 1981 NCAA survey the three most popular states to find top-notch grid prospects are Texas, Pennsylvania and Ohio. Texas is probably popular because it is such a large state and thus like a large department store, you have more to choose from. Besides, everyone knows everything is bigger in Texas, football players notwithstanding. Pennsylvania and Ohio, the other grid spots, perhaps are popular because the steel and coal industries predominate and are known for producing muscle and brawn within their ranks. In fact such greats as Matt Cavanaugh (Pitt), Ron Calcagni (Arkansas), the Pelusi brothers (Pitt) and the Browner brothers (Notre Dame, Southern Cal and Tulane) all came from Ohio.

So what then does all of this geographical information have to do with Clemson football? A quick perusal of the roster reveals that only a handful of Yankees call themselves Tigers and a big guy named Benish just happens to be one of them. A 6-6, 252-pound native of Hubbard, OH, Benish well exemplifies that "steel mill" brawn that has made Ohio such a fertile spot for football recruiters. "Hubbard is located between Pittsburgh, Youngstown and Cleveland so I guess I just grew up in the right area," mused Benish. (He's played football since he was seven years old.)

"High school football is taken very seriously in Ohio," said the soft-spoken Benish. "While there is no spring ball (as in the SC high schools) the August to November season is very intense," he said. As a matter of fact as a high school sophomore Benish played competitive ball three times a week, on Friday night with the varsity, on Saturday afternoon with the JV and on Monday afternoon with the sophomore squad.

"We had a good program at Hubbard. There was a large coaching staff with coaches at each position and at times our brand of ball closely resembled a minicollege team," he recalled. "Our high school training and preparation was also serious business," he continues. Apparently Benish worked hard at the grid business for he earned all-county and all-conference honors as a prepster which anywhere else might probably have equaled all-region or all-state honors.

At any rate, football in the Buckeye State is practically a way of life, so when Benish was winding up his prep career he found himself smack dab in the middle of the Big Ten and major independents' recruiting caravans. "I made unofficial visits to Michigan, Pittsburgh and Ohio State," he said. "Woody Hayes had talked to me several times and I suppose I figured I'd end up going there. But, just to make sure of my decision I was also considering West Virginia, NC State and Clemson."

Then in December of 1978 something happened that virtually changed the course of Dan's future. Woody Hayes struck Clemson middle guard Charlie Bauman during the Gator Bowl game and drew his last straw with the OSU administration. Shortly thereafter he was dismissed from his job. "After Woody Hayes got fired I didn't hear anything from Ohio State," he said. "I had been contacted by (former) Clemson Coach Mike Bugar (an Ohio native) so I decided to make a visit to Tigertown."

Dan's visit to Clemson (his furthest trip south in his life up to that point) came in the dead of a cold Ohio winter. "The students were just getting back from Christmas break and there was a lot of activity on campus. At the time the temperature was about 65 degrees and Clemson just looked like the right place for me," Benish said.

Now, four years later, the Tigers find themselves with a talented All-America defensive tackle candidate named Dan Benish on their roster. The third leading tackler on the squad this year, Benish teamed up with first-round draft pick Jeff Bryant in 1981 to comprise one of the toughest defensive units in the country.

While Benish is in his third year as a starter he has had many outstanding games during his career. Last year in the Orange Bowl for example, Benish recorded the third most tackles on the team (10). But Benish made his biggest impact for 1981 in the area of tackles for loss. He was second only to Bryant in that category with 10.

Besides his imposing size what makes this strong silent type guy so tough on the football field? Benish is quick to answer that the strength training facility has made a big difference in his development. "As an incoming freshman I felt I had the size to play college ball but I didn't feel I had the strength that I should. I enjoy lifting weights but more importantly I enjoy the results," said Benish. Admittedly a fanatic for dead-hang cleans, Benish feels they help his leverage and explosion off the ball, two important assets for a defensive tackle.

Basically a shy person the veteran player leads the younger Tigers by his actions rather than his words. On campus, too, he maintains a rather low profile in that he'd rather spend time playing video games with his girl friend than going out for wild nights on the town.

And, what are his ambitions after college? "I will be prepared for, and I hope I will get a chance to play pro ball," he said. "But, if I do not get a shot at the pros I'd like to get into real estate and eventually start my own business." Both Benish and the pro scouts know the track record of past Clemson tackles such as Jim Stuckey, Steve Durham, Archie Reese and Bryant so there is room for optimism.

Regardless of what the Tigers do in '82 Dan Benish intends to give it his all and let his actions speak louder than his words. Then, perhaps one day he, too, will join the list of the other grid greats from the Buckeye State.

Orange Outbreak

By Cricket Yates

"There's something in these hills that brings together and binds together and holds together men and women of all heights, sizes, weights and cultural backgrounds—something that cuts across every difference, spans every gap, penetrates every wall—something that makes a man or a woman stand taller, feel better and say to all within earshot, "I went to Clemson!"

—Joe Sherman
Clemson '34

There is something special in the foothills of South Carolina. Call it devotion, call it loyalty, call it whatever you want, but it's an omnipotent intangible. Clemson spirit is indeed unique, in fact you may go so far as to call it a Southern tradition. Tiger fans have been known to be called "obnoxious," "undying" and "fanatical", but most people will agree that above all, Tiger fans are the most loyal in the country. Whether the Tigers are losing or putting the hammer down on someone else, Clemson fans will stay to the end.

No one has been able to understand the spirit in the small Pickens County, South Carolina city, but nobody argues with it either. It cannot be attributed to any one factor, but rather the combination of many of the university's assets.

First, Clemson is a small college town. Football season is the height of the social calendar in the upcountry of South Carolina, because it is the social calendar of the tiny municipality. Secondly, Clemson fans are bred from birth. Tigers usually are not made, they are born.

Alumni support is one of the reasons for Clemson's successful overall athletic program. Last year, followers of the Tigers contributed $4.0 million dollars to the athletic department's scholarship fund-raising organization, known as IPTAY. That stands for "I Pay Thirty a Year"; it used to be "I Pay Ten a Year," but inflation has caused the change. It ranks as the number-one collegiate athletic scholarship fund-raising group in the country and it contributes to the 18 varsity sports, helping over 400 athletes. Not only has IPTAY done well in recent years, but the Clemson Alumni Association has won the CASE Award as the best alumni association in the country as well.

The students play the most important role in the generating of spirit at the University. Whether it be Tiger Band, the Cheerleaders, or the Central Spirit Committee, Clemson has all its grounds covered.

Tiger Band, directed by Dr. Bruce Cook, has long been known for the commitment to follow the Tigers to the "ends of the earth". Tiger Band travels with the football team to all its away games as well as performing at home games. Instrumentally, Tiger Band has 201 marching members. In addition, the flag line and attractive Tiger Twirlers are enough to rouse any halftime. Band members volunteer many hours for the enjoyment of Tiger fans on Saturday afternoon.

Of course, the cheerleaders always add to the color and pageantry of college football. The 15-member entourage includes the cannon firer and the Tiger mascot, now famous for the pushups he does after a Tiger's score. His career high is 465 pushups, done when the Tigers took on the Wake Forest Demon Deacons last year.

The driving force behind the students' participation in spirit-related events at Clemson rests with a group known as the Central Spirit Committee. The 35-member committee is in charge of coordinating events such as the pep rallies and the sales of all spirit-related paraphernalia on the campus. They have also made the painting of Tiger Paws on fans' faces famous. The members are at the stadium at 8:00 am Saturday mornings to blow up the 1,500 orange balloons that are released when the Tigers enter Frank Howard Field.

Their entrance is no ordinary entrance either. In the East end of the stadium (known as "Death Valley") there is a hill, known as "The Hill" or section GG (for Green Grass) which 6,000 fans pack to watch the Tigers play. At the top of "The Hill" sits a pedestal with a rock mounted on the top, known as "Howard's Rock." It came into being when legendary Frank Howard was coaching at Clemson and Sam Jones, a long time friend and Tiger supporter, brought Howard the rock from the other Death Valley in California. Howard told his players that if they touched the rock it would give them supernatural powers to gain victory. Consequently, the rock was mounted.

Then it happens. The fans that sit in section GG separate like oil and vinegar to leave a clear aisle through the middle of the crowd. A long purple carpet is rolled down "The Hill" and the Tigers appear at the top. Tiger Band strikes up the song that shakes the South, "Tiger Rag." Appropriately, the team rubs "Howard's Rock" for good luck and begins running down the massive rig. The helium balloons are released. The fans, predominantly with pawed faces, go into hysterics and another chapter of Clemson football history is about to be written.

These Tiger Paws have become Clemson's calling card. From its conception in 1970, the Tiger Paw has appeared on everything from football helmets to baby diapers to lining the highways and bivays into the university campus.

Yet the true spirit does not lie in symbols, but rather simply in its people, especially when the orange-clad supporters take to the road. Take for example, the 1978 Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, where the Tiger fans helped set the game's attendance record (72,011). Symbolic of that invasion, fans brought with them $2 bills with Tiger Paws stamped on them to generate millions of dollars in revenue for the city. But again, it is not so much in her symbols, as in her people that Clemson is so strong.

Clemson's spirit is undefinable. It's a feeling, some people say, that just can't be explained. It's mystique is unmeasurable, it's boundaries unlimited. It's contagious and ageless, because one never outgrows it.

Running down the hill, the Tiger mascot and smiling cheerleaders are all a part of Clemson spirit on a Saturday afternoon in Death Valley.

YOU DON'T GET TO THE TOP BY JUST PLAYING GAMES.

It takes hard work and a lot of practice. And it takes a commitment to being the best. The kind of commitment Clemson students, faculty and alumni have also brought to their positions on the J. P. Stevens team throughout the years.

Students filling jobs in nearby plants. Faculty providing continuing education and valuable research. And alumni in management roles.

For years we've worked together to create quality fabrics. Having Clemson on our side has helped keep us at the top, too.

Danny Ford

In just three full seasons as head coach, Danny Ford has made quite an impact on Clemson University. He has brought the Tigers to the pinnacle of college football and put Clemson in the limelight with the 1981 National Championship. Last year he was the major reason Clemson was the most improved team in the nation.

Ford deservedly was named National Coach-of-the-Year by United Press International, the American Football Coaches' Association, the Football Writers of America, and the Washington Touchdown Club, in addition to many other local football clubs. Ford is also the youngest head coach (33) ever to take a team to a national championship.

Ford is also the youngest fourth-year coach in Division I of the NCAA, but the now 34-year-old Gadsden, Alabama native has been associated with more winning teams and programs than most coaches come in contact with in a lifetime. Including his years as a player at Alabama under Bear Bryant, Ford has been associated with college football for the last 15 years. Fourteen of those clubs have had winning records and 11 have gone to bowl games. Additionally, the 15 teams have had a record of 124-47-3, a .720 winning percentage.

Ford has brought his winning attitude to Clemson University. Now in his fourth full season as a head coach, Ford has led the Tigers to a 27-9 record and three bowl games since taking over on December 10, 1978. That was a fine day in Clemson athletics because the University announced that Charley Pell had relinquished the head coaching duties of the 1978 Gator Bowl to Ford. Nearly 40 years after hiring 31-year-old Frank Howard, Clemson had hired a gifted 30-year-old to lead the Tiger forces on the gridiron.

Ford conquered all kinds of adversity in leading the Tigers to a nationally televised 17-15 triumph over perennial power Ohio State in the Gator Bowl in his very first game as head coach. Few mentors in NCAA history have made such a celebrated and successful beginning.

With this list of accomplishments, it is little wonder that the Student Affairs Committee of the Clemson Board of Trustees only considered one name as Charley Pell's successor. Danny Ford not only had the backing of Pell, but also from the members of the Clemson football team. He was then assistant head coach and offensive line coach for the Tigers. After two meetings between Ford and the committee on the morning of December 5, 1978, it was the unanimous opinion of the committee that Ford should be named Clemson's 21st head coach.

Ford began his association with college football in 1967 when he started for Bear Bryant at Alabama as Ken Stabler's sophomore tight end. He played three years for Bryant, (including three wins against Clemson) and was an All-Southeastern Conference choice, All-SEC academic selection and team captain during his senior season.

After receiving his B.S. degree in industrial arts in 1970, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 seasons. Upon earning a master's degree in special education in 1971, he was made a full-time assistant under Bryant for the 1972 and 1973 seasons. The Tide went to four more post-season games while Ford was on Bryant's staff.

Clemson's current head man then accepted a position as an assistant coach on Jimmy Sharpe's staff at Virginia Tech. He remained in Blacksburg for three seasons (1974 to 1976), before he was beckoned to Clemson by Charley Pell, who had just been named the Tigers' head coach. Pell and Ford had served together on the VPI staff for two seasons.

And only 23 games later, Ford became head coach of the Tigers at age 30, the youngest Division I head coach in the country.

Bill McLellan

 Athletic Director

By Wally Bowen

"I guess I'm a dreamer, and I try to make the dreams come true."

The dream is a national championship in football for Clemson University . . . the man in large part responsible for making it come true is Bill McLellan.

Whether the dream factory is Hollywood or big-time college athletics, everyone knows that dreams don't come true without a large supporting cast. True to form, Bill McLellan gives most of the credit for Clemson's athletic success to its fans. "The willingness of people to help and to become a part of Clemson is unbelievable. Their total involvement makes my job easier," says the 48-year-old father of four, two of whom are Clemson students.

This "total involvement" of fans is matched by McLellan's job performance as athletic director. When interviewed two years ago, McLellan was described by this writer as "one of the most sought after and accessible administrators on campus." He's rarely away from a telephone or walkie-talkie, by which he answers the steady stream of questions that ultimately come his way. "I handle the calls as they come, without delay if possible. It's like a chain reaction. I like to keep things moving."

And keeping things moving, to Bill McLellan, is a vital ingredient in Clemson's athletic success. "It's a continuous challenge," he says. "Staying up-to-date and pushing hard to see that Clemson has the opportunity to be competitive is my whole job."

But "pushing hard" has its price. "I've spent four Sundays at home in the last 13 months," said McLellan one day last winter. He described sitting down for a visit with his youngest daughter, Arch Anna, now a sophomore at Winthrop. It wasn't long before the phone rang with a call from an ABC-TV sports executive. "She felt it was wrong that she had to share me on a Sunday afternoon," says McLellan. "But you can't get away from it. It's the thing we've had to accept. It would blow your mind if you let it."

Clemson University has enhanced its national visibility through athletics, and the value of greater name recognition carries over into the University's educational mission. "I'm proud of the fact that the recognition is not limited to Clemson athletics, and also that it's not limited to Clemson University," says McLellan. "Clemson has been good for South Carolina, and people around the state can relate to that."

McLellan is fond of saying, "It's the little things that make life important." That attitude is at the heart of Clemson's athletic program, which is known for its efficiency and attention to detail both on the field and behind the scenes.

It is an attitude rooted in McLellan's upbringing in a family of seven children in the small farm community of Hamer, S.C. "Being a member of a big family helped me learn to understand people better and to appreciate the little things that are a part of that kind of life," he says. "We did everything together. All nine of us would pile into the car and go to church or visit relatives. We'd all eat together and we were always bringing our friends to the house."

The sense of family, the sense of belonging, is one of Clemson's strongest assets, he says. "You know how it is when you go somewhere and feel out of place. I don't think anyone who comes to Clemson feels out of place, as long as we remember that we get out of it what we put into it."

This concern for values is not lost in McLellan's handling of Clemson's athletic program. "I've got to let our coaches know that winning is good but that we've got to educate these young people. They're going to be representing us for the rest of their lives. We've got to realize that four years is a very short time for us to help shape their futures. We can't let the athletic demands get out of balance with the educational demands."

McLellan came to Clemson in 1950 on a football scholarship after graduating from Dillon High School. He earned two football letters as a Tiger lineman and was on the 1952 Gator Bowl team, but he insists he was not a very good athlete. Yet on-the-field talent wasn't the only kind former football coach Frank Howard was adept at spotting. "I knew he was honest, a hard worker and had gotten a good education," recalls Howard, who hired McLellan in 1958. "I let him do everything I didn't want to do, and he did a better job than if I had done it myself."

In a sense, Clemson's athletic program has grown as McLellan grew into his role as athletic director, the post he assumed in 1971. The result is one of the best athletic facilities in the country and an overall sports program that has been ranked as one of the nation's top four in recent years. "We've been forerunners in a lot of ways, and we've shown that we put what we earn back into our facilities. I'm proud that we're a self-sustaining auxiliary enterprise of the University."

Putting something back into the University has a personal dimension for McLellan also. "As one of seven children, that athletic scholarship made a lot of things possible for me, and I appreciate the opportunity to pay Clemson back. It's not an ego trip for me, but it is personal satisfaction which no one can ever take away."

Is there a limit to the pressure and job demands that Bill McLellan is willing to endure? "There's no limit as long as I can breathe, because I don't think a thing's impossible, given the support we have from Clemson people."

For this commitment and service to Clemson, Bill McLellan was named as a Distinguished Alumnus of Clemson University this past summer.

When my folks sent me to college, they never dreamed I'd come home a Financial Wizard.

I didn't have to take a course or crack a book, either. All I did was become a C&S customer.

Now I can use C&S's Wizard machines on campus and around town to make deposits and withdrawals from my checking and savings accounts, make transfers, even make payments on a loan—24 hours a day. And there are some 100 C&S offices and over 75 Wizard machine locations around the state, so I can be a Financial Wizard almost anywhere in South Carolina.

So, folks, even though I'm not on the Dean's List yet, I'm already getting straight A's in banking at C&S.

"Just 10 minutes
from Death Valley"

Clemson Iptay Club

By Len Gough, Assistant Executive Secretary of Iptay

The school year of 1981-1982 will bring fond memories to Clemson fans for many years. There were six ACC Champions, 15 of 17 teams participated in postseason playoffs and there were two national championships. Two? Of course, everyone knows about Clemson football, but once again, as in the previous three years, IPTAY was number one.

This team of dedicated alumni, students and friends continues to defy the odds with 18 consecutive record-setting years in raising funds for athletic scholarships. With 1981 being the most successful year for athletic scholarship fundraising, IPTAY 1982 merely had a 182% increase in giving over the goal. Success of this magnitude is nothing new for the 20,000 members as this group has raised over 22 million dollars in the past 48 years. What is it, then, that makes IPTAY so much more successful than all other athletic fundraising groups?

"Clemson people have made IPTAY the strong organization it is today," says Joseph J. Turner, Jr., executive secretary for IPTAY. "Our IPTAY representatives are people from across the state and the Southeast who love Clemson University and who want to help Clemson in any way. These folks spend a lot of their time arranging meetings and visiting other Clemson supporters. They're the ones who keep IPTAY head and shoulders above the rest."

IPTAY relies heavily on quality leadership provided by officers like President John Timmerman, Vice President Bill Reaves and Secretary Treasurer Lawrence Starkey, Jr., who were all re-elected to their respective offices in tribute to the outstanding job they did in 1981-82.

"IPTAY's officers and board of directors provide the guidance and judgment necessary to administer a successful program. When you take 20 successful businessmen and put them in your boardroom, chances are good ideas will develop," says Turner.

Founded as a secret society complete with mystic words and secret ceremonies, IPTAY has evolved into a professional organization of volunteers. These ideas that

Dr. Rubert A. Fike, IPTAY's founder and eight other men, discussed in Dr. Fike's Atlanta home over 48 years ago provide the basis for IPTAY today. Can you imagine what Clemson athletics would be like today if that meeting in August of 1934 had not taken place?

"Without a doubt, Clemson University would not be enjoying the national exposure it now has without the aid and support of the IPTAY organization," said Bill McLellan, Clemson's athletic director. "Athletes as well as the university community as a whole should be thankful for all the benefits that IPTAY has provided in the effort to make Clemson University Number One."

It's not a secret society anymore. Over one million dollars was distributed to 400 athletes in 19 varsity sports during the 1981-82 school year. This is the main thrust for IPTAY: to provide athletic scholarships for student athletes.

The success of IPTAY has enabled this organization to give aid to the athletic department and the university in many other ways. IPTAY paid for the new uniforms for the band in 1978 as well as provided travel funds for the band in 1980 and in 1981. The band will also travel in 1982 thanks to funding from IPTAY.

Among the physical improvements that were made possible by IPTAY, assistance included $22,000 for lights at the Riggs Soccer Field as well as $150,000 for construction of permanent seating at the Tigers' tennis courts and baseball field.

The new scoreboard, the stadium graphics, and ultramodern sound system were all made possible thanks to a $300,000 contribution from IPTAY. Certainly this helps make Death Valley one of the finest facilities in the South.

Certainly physical needs are not all at Clemson that IPTAY recognizes. The organization funds an academic tutoring program at no charge for student athletes. Forty thousand dollars has been contributed by IPTAY as partial funding of a master transportation plan for Clemson University. IPTAY contributed a $125,000 seed grant to begin planning for a Fine Arts Center for use by the entire Clemson Community.

"IPTAY is committed to Clemson and Clemson students," said Turner. "IPTAY is doing several things to make Clemson athletes even stronger, and therefore benefit the university as a whole."

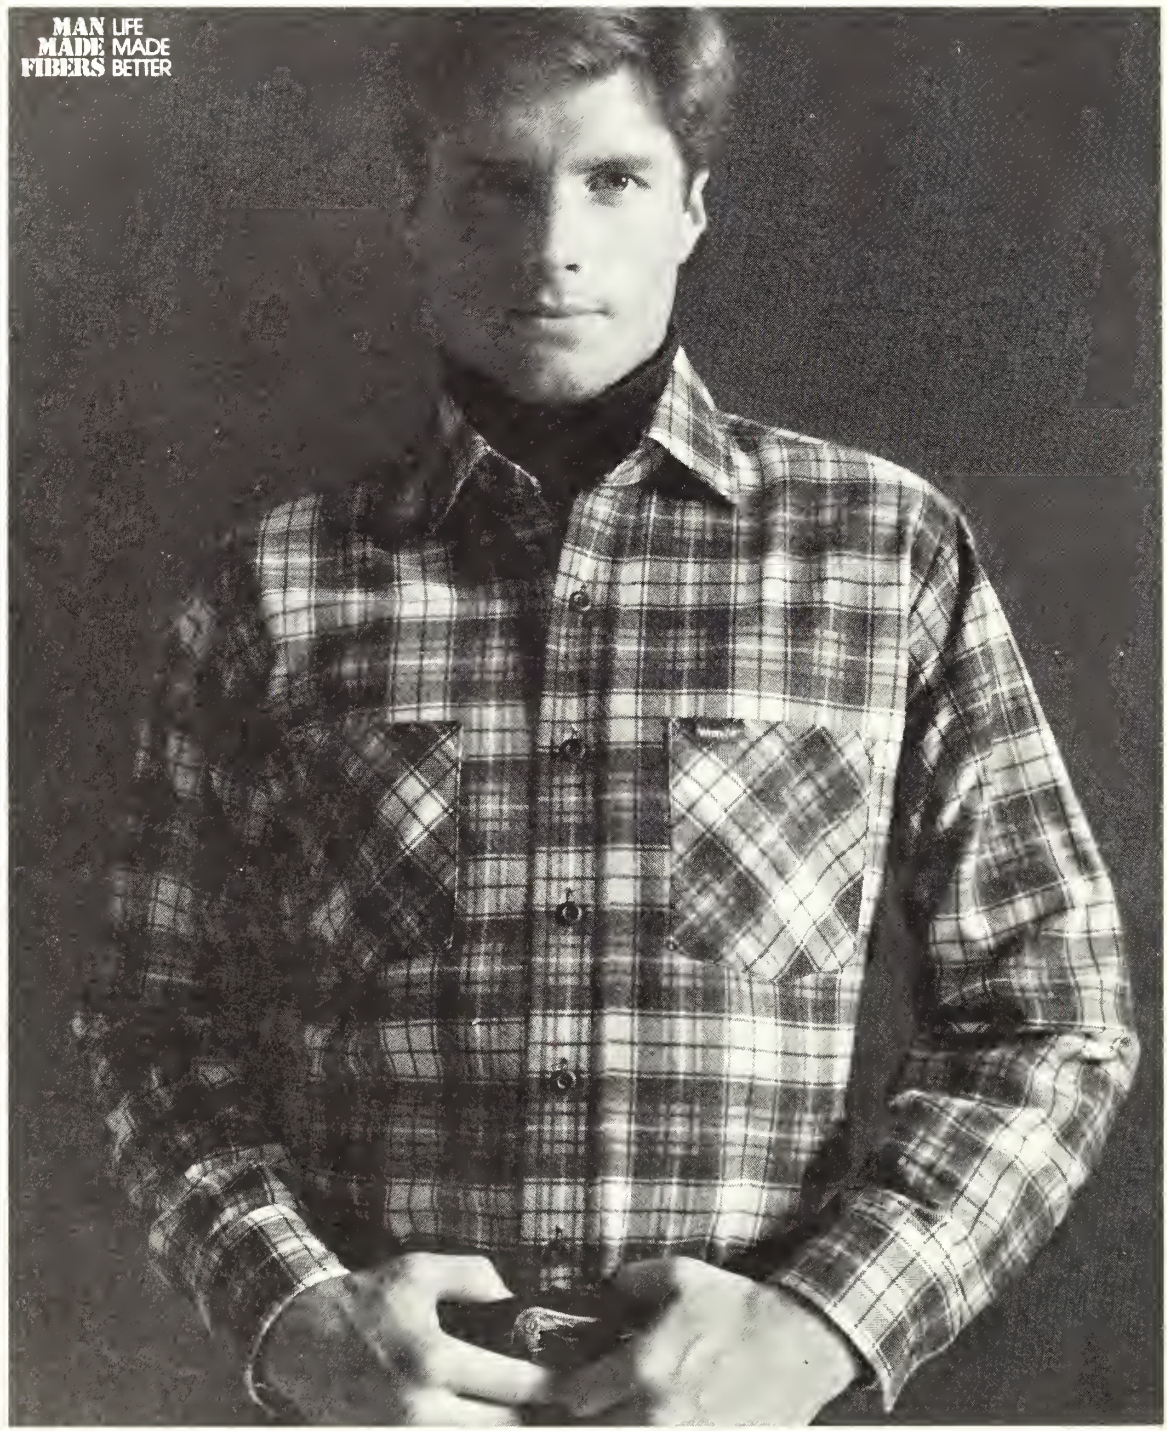

With 20,000 Clemson people dedicated to these goals, IPTAY can't help but stay Number One.

Alumni and Friends . . . Making Things Happen For Today's Students

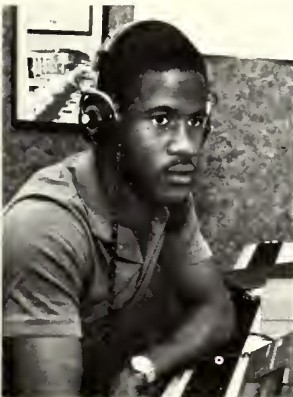

Four students . . . two Poole Scholars, an R. C. Edwards Scholar, and the Student Alumni Council president . . . represent outstanding young people at Clemson who are assisted by alumni programs which encourage academic excellence to match the Tigers' athletic achievements. A gift to the Loyalty Fund will add your name to the list of those who back up their belief in the students of tomorrow.

Melanie Smith, Poole Scholar freshman, from Wilson, N.C., and the N.C. School of Science and Mathematics: "Everyone here is so kind; the concept of the Clemson family tipped the scales; what a great day when Clemson alumni said, "Come on down!" "

Mark Swancy, senior, Student Alumni Council president from Spartanburg: "I feel honored to serve as student representative on the Alumni Association Board. I'll be glad to back the Loyalty Fund when I graduate; I learn everyday how valuable our support really is."

Alden Gold, Edwards Scholar, freshman from Columbia, accepted by M.I.T. and Georgia Tech: "I appreciate so much the confidence Clemson and its people placed in me. Thanks, alumni, for the opportunity; I promise I won't let Clemson or my parents down."

David Czabala, Poole Scholar, freshman from Atlanta: "Growing up in South Chicago, I dreamed of Notre Dame and was accepted; however, Clemson provides a sound undergraduate program and helped me make up my mind by offering a scholarship; I hope some day I can pay alumni back."

Tiger Superstitions

By Cricket Yates

Football players, as a general rule, are a superstitious lot. Most have a ritual or a routine they follow that makes them possess that extra edge. Few will admit it, but those who do have quite an assortment. In fact, everyone involved, players, coaches and administrators, will swear to their effect on a game.

When you imagine what is going on in just one big scene all over Clemson, on campus and in town, it is amusing to say the least. Let's go back to what happened last night and follow the chronology until kickoff.

Six Tigers enjoy preparation for the game by praying on Friday night. Eldridge Milton, Terry Kinard, Cliff Austin, Richard Hendley, Jim Scott and Carl Martin usually get together the night before the game at the Holiday Inn in Anderson.

If you are over at the team's headquarters and run into Kendall Alley, he will be wearing his favorite pair of boots. He has to wear those same boots the Friday before the game. Also on Friday, if you are in the strength training facility, which might house the most superstitious people of any place on campus, Greg Roberts, an assistant strength coach, will be wearing the colors of the opponent to get the Tigers fired up.

While Clemson is in Anderson, assistant coach Lawson Holland is at home in Clemson with his wife watching Dallas. He always has to eat at home, then watch the popular TV program the night before a home game. Dr. Byron Harder wakes up Saturday morning at the same time and puts on the same underwear, pants, socks and shirts he has worn for every game over the last couple of years. He sticks a pin in each special article of clothing so he knows which one is the right one (yes, they are washed in between games).

While Harder is putting on his superstitious clothing, Ticket Manager Van Hilderbrand has already circled the stadium, twice. Circled the stadium? "When I first get up I get dressed and come over real early at about 7:00 AM," said Hilderbrand, who is in his third year in his present position. "I just like to see everything all set and ready before the crowd invades."

Other players go through interesting early morning rituals. Anthony Parete and Mike Eppley, who room together on the road, always set the alarm for a certain time so they will not miss the Smurf cartoon show. While they are watching Smurf, Kendall Alley is putting on his socks, the left one first, then the right one. It has to be in that order or the Tigers might lose. At the same time, offensive guard Brian Butcher is calling his parents.

Once at the stadium, the routines continue. Jeff Stockstill, a senior wide receiver from Florida, ties and unties his shoes "about a hundred times" before the game. Then he gets his wrists taped by student trainer Joe Franks.

Franks, who some say has been at Clemson as long as Captain Jervey, is involved in many players' superstitions. In addition to his appointed taping with Stockstill, he always rubs Homer Jordan's head on Saturday morning for good luck. Ben Massingill, another manager, is also involved, as he is the aide George Cain always gives his ring, watch and change to prior to the game.

In the dressing room just before the first on-field workout, Billy Davis, like Alley did earlier in the morning, puts the same sock on first, then puts his wrist bands on top of his locker. When he comes in again, before running down the hill, he then puts the wrist bands on. Davis then has a meeting with fellow free safety Terry Kinard.

While Davis and Kinard are having their final discussions on the opponent's wide receivers, Brendon Crite is writing a quick verse of poetry that he reads to an assortment of teammates. Danny Triplett is putting the final touches on his jersey. He is the only player on the team that ties the jersey in the back into a bow with a shoe string.

Ray Brown is in the other corner of the locker room, removing his St. Christopher's medal, the only time of the week he takes it off. He then meets Dan Benish out on the field during warmups and "cracks backs" with the fellow tackle.

While the players are adopting their little idiosyncrasies, the administrators and coaches are doing the same. Strength training director George Dostal always puts a coin in his shoes, while Rex Kipps meets Danny Ford at his locker to give him exactly five pieces of gum. Larry Van Der Heyden, Clemson's ebullient line coach, makes his way around the locker room shaking hands with all the players.

Now we are ready to run down the hill. While the leaders may vary, pay close attention and you will see that three players, Jeff Stockstill, Mark Richardson and Kendall Alley are always the last three to make the breath-taking run.

There can be many a reason for winning and losing, some physical and some psychological. The Tigers have all the bases covered.

Clemson's Manhattan

By Tim Bourret

When football fans compare the college and pro games, one of the comparative assets attributed to the former is spirit. Oh, for the color and pageantry of college football. Teams at the university level have successfully utilized well-documented ploys over the 113 years of college football to gain an advantage, the intangible advantage called motivation.

In 1980 for the annual with South Carolina the Clemson Tigers added to the college game's mystique by pulling off the most secretive strategical plan since the Manhattan Project. The Orange Pants Project will live in the memories of Tiger fans forever and based on the results, it will hold a special place in Clemson University history.

Clemson has worn orange pants four times since their birth in 1980 and all have been victories. Three of the triumphs came in the glory of the national championship campaign of last year when the Tigers used the motivating apparel to defeat Georgia, Maryland and Nebraska.

The history of the britches and the accompanying secrecy is a fascinating story. The idea was actually conceived by Len Gough, then equipment manager and present assistant executive secretary of Iptay (some jokingly say the orange pants idea significantly contributed to his recent promotion). In the summer of 1980 he received samples of orange pants from various places.

"I thought they would look super and we could use them as something special down the road," said Gough, a 1975 graduate of Clemson. "That summer I mentioned the idea to Coach Ford. He liked the idea, but was not jumping up and down at the time, and even said he was thinking about 1981 to use them."

The idea lay dormant until Homecoming of 1980. "Kind of out of the blue, Danny came down to the equipment room to see the sample pair and asked if we could get a set for the South Carolina game (now only six weeks away). I couldn't give him an answer right away, but we thought we should ask a couple of the players, some we could trust with a secret."

So, the Wednesday before the Homecoming game with Virginia Tech, Willie Underwood and Jeff Davis, two of Clemson's most reliable team leaders, became the chosen two. Underwood, the model, recalled the modeling session.

"It was a complete surprise to me, we did not know what the meeting was about. I saw them and right from the start thought, this is great. The pair fit just right, even better than the pants I had been wearing all season. We needed something special and this was going to be the symbol. I was excited and so was Jeff, but Coach Ford said it was to be a surprise and that we could not tell anyone. It was a month and a half until the game, but we swore we would not tell anyone. We would see each other on campus during the days before the game and smile and ask each other, 'Did you tell anyone?'"

Underwood and Davis both did a fairly good job of not letting the cat out of the bag. Davis only spilled the beans to one person, his four-year roommate and fellow team leader Perry Tuttle. "After the meeting with Willie, Len and Coach, Jeff came into the room and shut the door. He said, 'I'm going to tell you something you can't tell anyone. We are going to wear orange britches against South Carolina.' I thought, how is this going to look, but after I thought about it I knew it was something we needed."

The decision to go with the pants actually was not finalized until November 3,

Project

1980, the Monday after the Wake Forest game. That is cutting it close, but Gough and Head Trainer Fred Hoover, came to the rescue. "Fred was a friend of Hank Spires, the vice president of Russell Mills in Alabama and we needed his connection to get them made in the 20 days left until the game," said Gough.

Getting cloth for 120 uniform pants is no easy task and the cloth did not arrive at the plant until Wednesday, November 19, only three days before the game. "It was a panic situation that final week," said Gough. "They put it on as a priority list item."

On Thursday the 20th the Mills company said the pants would be ready at noon on Friday, which meant the only way to get them to the game on time would be to fly down and get them. So that Friday, Gough and Earle Ambrose flew to Alexander, AL to pick up the pants. At this point only 10 people still knew about the ploy.

"When we got there they still weren't ready. We were asking a lot because we had ordered 120 pairs of custom-fitted pants. We waited patiently and they were ready about 3:00 PM. It was getting tight and we knew we had a late night ahead of us," said Gough. "Hank Spires then drove us back to the airport and we got back to Clemson, with 40 boxes of pants in my car.

"Our next task was to wash the pants. I took two pairs back to Jervy and washed them to make sure they did not shrink too much. They passed the test and later that night about 10:00 PM Bobby Douglas and I washed every pair, which is something we do with every new pair to get them into their natural condition."

Identification of the pants was the next step. Douglas and Gough started that tedious job at 7:00 AM the morning of the game. They did not want to get the student managers involved because the secret had gone so well for so long. At this point, still only about 10 people knew what was going to be the surprise of the year just four hours later.

Gough and Douglas loaded the pants in a big hamper and covered the top with white towels for transportation to the stadium. "A few managers became suspicious when we brought out this extra hamper, but they still did not know what was happening."

While the pants were being transported to the locker room, the Clemson football team was at the Holiday Inn in Anderson finishing its pregame meal. At the conclusion of the meal, Ford informed the team of the secret pants and displayed a pair. "When Coach Ford pulled them out of the box at the meeting the morning of the game we knew we were going to win," recalled Tuttle. "The guys just went crazy. Coach said a few things, but he did not have to say anything really. We could not have been more fired up for the game."

At 11:10 AM Gough and the managers began unpacking the orange pants at the lockers. The Tigers were to warm up in the traditional white pair then change before the final entrance via the hill for 1980. Thus, the managers had to get two pairs of pants ready. Everything was going well until about 11:15. "One of the managers brought in Paul Coakley (who worked for Clemson) to pick something up in the locker room," said Gough, who recalls the situation with a smile. "I felt bad for him, but we had to keep him in the locker room until we left for the last time. His eyes grew to twice their size when he saw the orange pants and I just didn't want to risk South Carolina or anyone else finding out, so he stayed in Danny's interview room area for an hour."

Everything went on schedule in the rest of the pregame. The schedule to come off the field had been moved back five minutes to give the players extra time to change pants. "When they were putting on the pants there was a constant buzz," said Danny Ford. "The players were beside themselves. I always made orange special in practice, especially in the spring and the fall for scrimmages. The team that got to wear orange in the scrimmages was the team that was doing well, it had prestige, so orange already had a special meaning for them."

Every minor detail was taken care of in the minutes prior to the unveiling. For the coin toss, the Tigers sent out Eddie Geathers, who was injured, to represent the team at the toss and he wore blue jeans. When the team went out of the locker room to board the bus, all the players went out through the prospect room so as few fans as possible would see them. The buses were moved right up to the door.

"When they were out of the locker room, I just went out to the sideline to see the reaction," said Gough. "The team stayed on the buses until South Carolina came on the field, we wanted them to see the full effect. When we got to the hill it was like a rippling effect. People would see them at the end close to the hill and you could see the news pass through the stands."

The rest is history. Clemson went on to beat South Carolina that day, 27-6. The Gamecocks were nationally ranked with Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers.

Ironically, the star of the game was Willie Underwood. The same man who had been selected to be the first to try on the Orange Pants had the game of his life with 16 tackles, two interceptions, one returned for a touchdown. It was the first interception of his career and he was named national defensive Player-of-the-Week by Sports Illustrated.

"That was the greatest game of my life," said Underwood. "You just felt so good in those pants. I swear you could run faster and jump higher in those things."

Clemson last wore the orange britches against Nebraska in the 1981 Orange Bowl, the contest in which the Tigers claimed the national championship. What is the future of the orange pants? No one knows for sure. Well, some people know, but that probably will remain a secret. But, don't be surprised if Dick Crum wakes up on November 7 feeling like Field Marshall Hata did on August 7, 1945.

CIMARRON '83

A NEW KIND OF CADILLAC

Bold new performance.

In '83 Cimarron sports a snappy new 2.0-liter electronically fuel-injected engine with a smooth-shifting five-speed manual transmission. (Three-speed automatic also available.) Cimarron '83 also has an exclusively tuned Touring Suspension, front-wheel drive, power-assisted rack and pinion steering and MacPherson strut front suspension... all standard. Some Cadillacs are equipped with engines produced by other GM divisions, subsidiaries, or affiliated companies worldwide. See your dealer for details.

Bold new look.

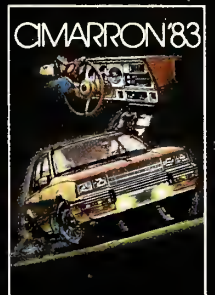

Cimarron shines with a distinctive new grille treatment, tungsten halogen fog lamps and a hood medallion. Plus crisp new aluminum alloy wheels for a clean, contemporary look in '83.

Clemson University was born during hard economic times in the decade of the 80s—the 1880s.

Through scientific education in agriculture and the mechanical arts, the young Clemson A&M College turned out thousands of Southern boys with the technical and management skills to build a modern economy strong in agriculture and manufacturing.

Economic hard times are with us again in the 1980s and Clemson, now a modern, coed university, approaches its centennial with a renewed sense of urgency about its founding mission.

Simply stated, Clemson believes education—investing in human resources, investing in brainpower—is the essential cornerstone of prosperity and well-being for South Carolinians.

Despite rising costs and budget cuts, there is everywhere on campus this fall evidence of a renewed commitment to academic excellence.

Records for private support for academics were shattered last year. The University's total permanent endowment now exceeds $9.7 million and Clemson alumni rank third in the nation among public colleges and universities in percentage participation in alumni giving.

Through the Alumni Loyalty Fund, Clemson has increased academic scholarships, fellowships and awards for outstanding teaching and research. It also added five permanent Alumni Professorships, awarded to the University's "master teachers."

Plans are under way to launch, in early 1983, a major academic fund-raising effort, the "Challenge to Greatness" campaign, to culminate with the school's 100th birthday in 1989.

Applications for admission are up, and so is student retention. Last year 86 percent of Clemson freshmen returned as sophomores, reflecting their view of the value of a Clemson education as well as their own scholastic achievement.

The University launched its honors program "Calhoun College" this fall. And Clemson continues to review and evaluate its 77 undergraduate and 58 graduate programs to make sure they meet the needs of the students, society and industries served—agriculture, textiles, electronics, construction, forestry, travel and tourism.

The University foresaw the computer age and the demand for computer education and built one of the largest and best-managed academic computer centers in the nation. And the computer science department is the fastest growing academic unit on campus.

Research and public service activities through agencies like the S.C. Agricultural Experiment Station and the Cooperative Extension Service are undergoing a similar rigorous examination to make sure they meet the needs of the 21st century.

When the year 2082 rolls around, Clemson plans to be ready.

USA-1 CHEVROLET

TAKING CHARGE

This year, we at Chevrolet are going to prove something very important.

We're going to prove that your faith in American ingenuity, technology and skill has not been misplaced.

In the coming months, you'll see that proof in places you may not have checked lately. In our Chevrolet products.

Take a good hard look, this year especially.

You'll discover a Chevrolet that's much more than simply number one in sales.

You'll discover a Chevrolet that's taking charge in providing better, more exciting, affordable products.

Chevrolets built with higher-quality design and assembly procedures.

Chevrolets built with more state-of-the-art production techniques.

Chevrolets with the most advanced automotive technology ever in our history.

Whether or not we become your next new car, we want to make you proud that we are America's car.

We are USA-1. And USA-1 is taking charge.

Historic Reunion

Clemson World Magazine

What a difference a year can make!

On May 15, 1981, the San Francisco 49ers dug in for spring training—a long, hard road which nobody knew then would lead to the pot of gold. Clemson alumni Jim Stuckey, Dwight Clark and Archie Reese were a part of that group. When 1982 dawned, they would find themselves World Champions and national celebrities.

The three 49ers, since their triumph in the Super Bowl, have been deluged with personal appearances. They have pitched in with a smorgasbord of community projects and have received recognition far beyond the dreams of the group which started the 1981 season.

During 1982, Jim Stuckey has had the usual celebrity tour of dinners and public appearances, but he managed to get back to Clemson this spring for some physical conditioning. Dwight Clark participated recently in a Charity Walkathon, plus numerous personal appearances and TV shows.

Archie Reese has since been traded to the Los Angeles Raiders, but he has had a balancing act going—with personal appearances, maintaining his Big Brother activities with underprivileged youth, and plans for a projected community activities program with churches and schools in the Sunnyvale, CA area have been made.

Team Project

This spring, while San Francisco was immersed in celebrating its first-ever world championship, Clemson President Bill Atchley—working with the State Development Board—arranged a trip to California to meet executives from the industry-rich Silicon Valley, to persuade some of these fast-growing electronic firms to move to South Carolina.

He arrived in California last May 3, and the 49ers showed that they had not forgotten National Champion Clemson, where they all got their start. They teamed up with the President, Development Board officials, and Coach Danny Ford as star performers at a luncheon for the West Coast businessmen.

49ers On Stage

Jim Stuckey led off, expressing his pleasure at meeting the group of successful businessmen and saying, "You are a reflection on, and a credit to, Clemson and the state."

Dwight Clark was next up, and he also got serious for a minute, remarking, "It's great to have all you Clemson people pulling together like this, and I knew I couldn't go back to visit the National Champs without winning that World Championship." Frank Kellers, '57 of Sunnyvale, CA, recalled some of the key plays by Dwight during the season, particularly in the final game against Dallas and in the Super Bowl.

Archie Reese came onstage, and told about a Club member who tried to locate his high school coach to find out his high school colors. The hometown, Mayesville, was so tiny that the Clubber had to call the police department for information; he was told: "We know him but he moved out of town"—but they gave the necessary information. Dwight and Jim, ribbing Archie about Mayesville, asked him how big it was—whereupon he stretched his arms to full length to indicate the city limits.

Archie expressed surprise to see so many South Carolinians—"I thought you people were afraid of earthquakes out here!"

Danny Remembers

Danny Ford then came forward and recalled that the first game he coached at Clemson, Clark had sustained a shoulder separation, "but he came back the second half and helped us coach." Danny was an assistant coach when Jim Stuckey started playing for the Tigers, and Ford checked the dorm after the game . . . finding a few of the boys—including Jim—drinking beer, which was a no-no. Danny made Jim run 100 forty-yard dashes in the next week, and, he said, "we started winning."

That was too much for Jim. He asked for the floor, and recalled a different version of the first game Danny coached. The players, meeting with Ford on the field, observed that he began scratching out lines in the turf with his foot—displaying the rhythm and authority of an artist. Jim said the players concluded that he was drawing plays in the dirt so he wouldn't forget any.

Archie was leaving when Ford arrived and they didn't see each other much, but Danny recalled that Reese "did an outstanding job at Clemson." The coach praised the trio, saying, "You are doing an excellent job in San Francisco; you are very special people and will be very special alumni."

During the Super Bowl, someone burglarized Archie's apartment, so Danny Ford came to the rescue. At the Club's request, he had brought along a few mementoes to replace Archie's loss, and he brought out some '76 Clemson football programs (when Archie was playing), a '77 Gator Bowl Media Guide and Medallion, and a picture of Death Valley before the upper deck was added—the Stadium which Archie had known.

The Club then presented Danny with a brass spittoon, with a baked enamel inscription and a cartoon on the other side. Danny said he had six of these (but not as pretty), but remarked, "My wife doesn't allow me to chew at home . . . so she uses them for flower pots!"

Keeping in Shape

President Atchley was the next speaker. He said he now had three rings: a wedding ring, an ACC Championship ring, and a National Championship ring. He suggested to wife Pat that he take off his wedding ring so he could wear one of the others, whereupon she told him, "You do and I'll put it through your nose!"

Bill Atchley paid tribute to the accomplishments of other Clemson athletic programs . . . including a first-ever ACC golf title this year, top-ranked tennis and fencing teams, and three Coaches-of-the-Year in different sports. He mentioned Clemson's progress in academic programs also, citing the new Strom Thurmond Institute that was being formed on campus.

In closing, Atchley made a remark that found its way into one of Dan Hruby's columns on the West Coast, and reflected the feelings of all who were gathered in Santa Clara that night of May 3. When Bill was asked—on many occasions, why Clemson was different from all other schools, he declared, "People who graduate from Clemson love their school with the heart, and they don't just support it with their head."

“Sterling” Day for the Tigs

By Jeff Rhodes

It is not unusual for a baseball game to be called off on account of rain, but Clemson nearly lost the services of two of the three players who scored for the Tigers in the 1951 Orange Bowl game against Miami (FL) because of a South Florida downpour.

“It was a thunderstorm that kept us out late one night before the game, even though Coach (Frank) Howard does not believe it to this day,” said Fred Cone, now assistant director of intramurals at Clemson. “He was about four shades redder than normal when Don Wade, Glenn Smith, and I came in after curfew.

“Coach Howard was waiting in the lobby when we finally got in,” Cone recalled. “We sneaked in the back way and he just happened to look down the corridor and saw us. We ran up the stairs and Howard chased us. I had just gotten my shirt off and slipped under the covers when Coach came in. He waited for about 30 seconds before he spoke to me because he was out of breath and that was the longest 30 seconds of my life. He scared us to death—he was really wound up about this and he said he was going to send us home.”

Howard decided to let the team vote whether or not to send the three recalcitrant captains home and the team voted unanimously to let them play. “We had a vote and got Coach Howard off of the hook,” said Sterling Smith with a laugh. Smith’s role in this story will be coming “in a later series of downs” as they say on ESPN.

Clemson and Miami were both undefeated, but had one tie apiece coming into Miami’s 17th New Year’s Day classic and the two teams engaged in a defensive struggle for the scoreless first quarter.

“We didn’t know anything specific about Miami before we played them,” said Cone. “We knew they were a hard-hitting team and had a good passing attack, but that’s about it. It turned out to be a really hard-fought game.”

After a Miami punt, Clemson started its first scoring drive from its own 24. The Tigers ran two plays before quarterback Billy Hair hit Bob Hudson with a 45-yard pass that moved the Country Gentlemen to the Hurricane one-yard line. Cone capped the 76-yard drive on third down with a sweep and Charlie Radcliff, whose toe had averted a loss to South Carolina earlier in the season, kicked the extra point.

“I always got the headlines, but I only gained one or two yards a try,” said Cone. “I just was used on short yardage situations.” Cone finished his career for Clemson that day with 31 carries for 81 yards and the touchdown.

The defenses entertained the crowds for the rest of the quarter and the teams went into the locker room with Clemson leading 7-0.

Early in the third quarter, Clemson mounted a six-play 70-yard drive for the second touchdown. Hair threw a 31-yard pass to Ray Mathews who, as the newspaper accounts of the game said, “made a circus catch with two men on his back,” to move the Tigers to the Miami 28. Hair lobbed an aerial to Glenn Smith at the Miami seven and he scrambled in for the score. Radcliff’s try for the point after was blocked and that was a sign of things to come.

Miami caught fire two minutes later when Jack Delbello intercepted a pass in the Clemson end zone and returned it to the 40. A 10-yard unnecessary roughness penalty was tacked on and Miami had the ball at midfield. On the next play, Frank Smith (these Smiths are beginning to read like the phone book) ran a reverse to move to the Clemson five. Harry Mallios, who is now the athletic director at Miami, scored on a pitchout and Gordon Watson added the point after.

After another interception, Miami went 95 yards to tie the game. Ed Lutes caught a pass at midfield and rambled down to the Clemson 17 before he was tackled. On fourth down, Jack Hackett threw to Frank Smith for the score. Watson’s point after gave Miami the lead at 14-13.

With a little over six minutes left in the game, Mallios’ 80-yard punt was called back and two controversial clipping infractions and one unnecessary roughness penalty put Miami in a deep hole. Frank Smith took a pitchout from Hackett, but before Smith could get out of the end zone, Sterling Smith tackled him for a safety with about four minutes left, and Clemson led 15-14.

“It was just one of those lucky moments in sports,” said Smith. “I was just there at the right time. We were running a seven-man line and somebody just forgot to block me. They had run that pitch wide all day, so we knew what was going to happen. I hit him good and the official stuck up his hands. I know it certainly was an exciting moment for me.”

Miami’s last chance fell into the hands of Clemson’s J.D. Wade and the Tigers completed their miraculous comeback by running out the clock and claiming their third consecutive bowl game win.

Frank Howard summed up the game in his own humorous style last December when he was inducted into the Orange Bowl Hall of Fame by saying, “We should have beaten the devil out of Miami, but we got behind. In the end, though, we humiliated them, 15-14.”

Sterling Smith tries to avoid being tackled by his teammates after he tackled a Miami running back in the end zone to give Clemson a dramatic 1951 Orange Bowl victory.

For the third time in the last four years, the Clemson all-around sports program has been ranked in the top five in the nation. The survey conducted by the Knoxville Journal takes into account national ranking in many selected sports. The Tigers were ranked fourth in this year's poll as six Clemson teams were rated in the top 20 in men's athletics last year. The Tigers have been in the top five of the poll in 1979, 1980 and 1982 and have been in the top 30 in the last seven years. Obviously Clemson's superb coaching staff is the prime reason Tiger athletics are on such firm ground.

Twenty points are awarded for first place, 19 for second, 18 for third, etc.

SECOND TEN: Alabama 45½, Arkansas 44, Penn State 42, Stanford 40½, California 40, Texas El Paso 40, Georgia 35, Brigham Young 31, Iowa 30, Pepperdine 30.

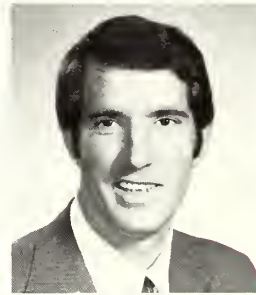

THIRD TEN: Iowa State 29, Indiana 27, Nebraska 27, Oklahoma 27, Minnesota 26, North Carolina State 26, San Jose State 26, West Virginia 26, Tennessee 25, Missouri 24.

Teenage Athletic Injuries

By Carol Schwartz

(Editor's Note: The writer is an instructor in the College of Nursing, Clemson University.)

Football season is in full swing now, but many players will be benched by injuries long before the playoffs. Schools are now providing safer equipment and coaches are receiving better training in an effort to prevent injuries. However, participation in athletics has never been higher, and consequently, high school athletic injuries are increasing.

To prevent injury and reduce the seriousness of injury, every high school athlete playing a contact sport should undergo a rigorous total body conditioning program. It should be well-organized, formal, and begin at least four to six weeks before opening the season. A comprehensive program should include physical exercise, weight training, heat tolerance, agility exercises and flexibility drills.

An eight-year study with high school varsity football players revealed 63 percent fewer surgical knee injuries among conditioned athletes. Even with proper conditioning, injuries may occur. Loose jointedness decreases coordination and body control and predisposes the young athlete to joint injuries. If a loose jointed high school athlete plays contact sports, he or she must be well-conditioned in order to stabilize the joints. Tight jointed athletes can withstand greater force to joints. But when injured, they often sustain a more severe trauma.

When injuries do occur, prompt attention and action by coaches, trainers or parents is crucial. The athlete should be X-rayed to reveal any bone fractures. To keep swelling to a minimum, immediately apply ice to the injured area, elevate the extremity when possible, and immobilize the joint. If the joint is sprained, apply ice intermittently for the first 24 hours, then heat and compression wrap as necessary. The joint should be immobilized for the first 24-36 hours, depending on the severity of the sprain.

A mild sprain is recognized by minimal or no loss of function of the involved area and a mild degree of discomfort. There is no joint instability, no bruising and no tenderness over the ligaments.

A severe sprain is recognized by extreme discomfort, loss of function, bruising, instability, moderate to severe swelling and a grating or crackling sound in the joint.

For the most severe of sprains, tearing of fibers and disruption of ligaments, the athlete may require surgery or a cast. This allows the joint to heal and not lose its stability.

It is important that your high school have a good conditioning program. This is the best protection against serious joint injury. In case of injury, X-rays should be taken to determine if bones have been broken; apply ice; immobilize the joint; and elevate the arm or leg.

Conditioning of athletes is an important concern of the Clemson athletic department, but solid programs must begin at the high school level.

Tiger Patriotism

By Jill Mixon

It's Homecoming 1982, Tiger style, and the Tiger Band adds its traditional excitement and pageantry to this year's special occasion. A patriotic theme dominates today's presentation as the Tiger Band, under the direction of Dr. Bruce Cook and Assistant Director of Bands Richard E. Goodstein, perform for yet another capacity crowd in Death Valley. Once again the band will enter Frank Howard Field to "Sock It To Em" and continue the program by spelling out TIGERS to the tune of "Tiger Rag."

Special guest Rusty Donkle (Class of '49), alumni association president, will have the honor of dotting the "i" in today's pregame festivities. The Greenville native is in his second term as alumni association president. He is married to the former Jean McSween, and they have one son, Lang.

The pregame activities continue as the Air Force ROTC presents the colors as the Clemson University Chorus joins the band in "America the Beautiful," "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the alma mater. The Tiger Band then closes out the pregame show to a reprise of "Sock It To Em" and "Tiger Rag" as the team prepares to do battle against the Kentucky Wildcats.

Today's halftime extravaganza includes a special arrangement of John Phillip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever." This number will feature the piccolo section. The Clemson University Chorus, under the direction of Willard Cottrell, will join the Tiger Band in a medley of patriotic favorites. This medley, especially arranged for band and chorus by David Miller, includes "This is my Country," "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "You're a Grand 'Ole Flag," and "God Bless America."

The focus of attention then turns to the 1982 Homecoming Queen and her court. The queen was chosen by a student body vote last week and was crowned by 1981 Homecoming Queen, Allison Howell, at Tigerama last night. The newly-crowned queen and her court will be riding on a float constructed by the Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity. The queen will make her traditional ride around the field to a tune popularized by Diana Ross and Lionel Ritchie, entitled "Endless Love", arranged by Larry Kerchner.

Two members of the Tiger Band who make an enormous contribution are drum majors Allen Moore and Cathy Anderson. In addition to sharing the title of drum major, Moore and Anderson also share the same hometown of Greenwood, S.C. Moore is a senior majoring in accounting, while Anderson is a junior majoring in early childhood education. In the past there have been female assistant drum majors, but Anderson is the first female to be honored by her selection to drum major.

The Tiger Band then concludes the halftime show with the song that shakes the Southland—"Tiger Rag," as it exits the field to start another exciting half of action against the Wildcats.

Tigers in the Crowd

Neil Brophy
Hilton Head, SC

Brophy, 21, finished 11th in the country in the 1,650 indoor nationals last year to qualify for All-America status for the Tiger men's swimming team.

He also was a member of two relay squads that qualified for All-America honors. Brophy is the only returning member of the Tigers who was All-Atlantic Coast Conference in four events last year, and he won the 500 and the 1,650 freestyle events at the ACC meet. Entering his senior season, Brophy is the Clemson record holder in the 1,650 and the 500. Both were set last year at the indoor nationals in Gainesville, FL.

Cappy Craig
Darien, CT

Craig, 23, became Clemson's first two-time diving All-American last year at the first NCAA meet in Gainesville, FL. She finished fourth in the nation in the one-meter diving and seventh at the three-meter event at the NAAs.

She also won both events at the ACC championships last March and holds the Clemson record in both events. The recent Clemson graduate also recorded the highest scores ever by a Clemson diver in an NCAA meet.

Todd Sterr
Joliet, IL

Sterr, 18, became the first freshman in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference to be named the outstanding wrestler at the conference tournament.

He captured the 118-pound class at the conference meet in what most considered to be the most competitive class. He then went to the NCAA competition in Ames, Iowa and represented the Tigers well. He was defeated by eventual national champion Barry Davis of Iowa, 14-12, but scored the most points against the champion in the meet. He finished the year with a 32-14-1 ledger.

Jerry Butler
Ware Shoals, SC

Butler, 26, is the top receiver for the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League. A 1980 Clemson graduate, Butler starred for the Tigers between 1975 and 1978. In the NFL he has been one of the top receivers in the league. In his first two games he has caught 13 passes for 172 yards and has been the leading receiver for the Bills in both games. Against Minnesota in a Thursday night game he caught seven passes for 111 yards and two touchdowns, including the game-winner in a one-point Bills' victory. Butler still holds the Clemson record for receptions in one season, 58, set in 1978.

Mike Brown
Vienna, VA

Brown, 23, was the only player in the Boston Red Sox organization to jump from AA to the majors this season. The former Clemson pitcher was with Bristol of the Eastern League most of the season, but was brought up to the parent club for the pennant drive in September. During his career at Clemson, Brown was a top pitcher for three Clemson teams that went to the NCAA playoffs. He is still ranked in the top five in Clemson history in appearances, games started, innings pitched and shutouts.

Jane Forman
Providence, RI

Forman, 18, was a NIKE All-American for the Lady Tiger tennis team last season when she led the team to an 18-13 record and a berth in the first NCAA women's tennis tournament at Salt Lake City, Utah. Clemson's number-one player as a sophomore had a 31-11 record last year and had five victories over players ranked in the top 20 in the nation. She is also a two-time ACC champion as she claimed the number-three singles title as a freshman and the number-one title last fall.

Chubby Wells
Philadelphia, PA

Wells, 26, was one of the top players in the Finland Professional Basketball League last year as he averaged an incredible 38 points per game. The 1982 Clemson graduate is in South America this fall playing in another foreign professional league. The popular forward was one of the top players for Bill Foster's team during the 1976-77, 1977-78 and 1978-79 seasons.

"Chubby" averaged six points and four rebounds per game during his 65-game career with the Tigers.

Tom Harper
Piqua, Ohio

Harper, 50, is the assistant head coach of the Clemson football team. He is given much credit for the Clemson turnaround last season as the Tigers went from a 6-5 season to the national championship. A veteran college assistant at seven schools, and a former head coach at Wake Forest, Harper developed many innovative defenses last season that helped the Tigers finish second in the country in scoring defense. Harper received both his undergraduate and master's degrees from today's opponent, the University of Kentucky.

Dr. I. M. Ibrahim
Haifa, Israel

Ibrahim, 41, is closing in on 200 career victories as soccer coach at Clemson. By far he is the most successful soccer coach in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference on a victories and winning percentage basis. Now in his 16th year at Clemson, the Tigers' only soccer coach in history has taken the Tigers to nine ACC championships and nine NCAA tournaments. He has had five teams go undefeated in the regular season and has taken teams to the final four of the NCAA tournament four times. Since 1972 his teams have won over 95 percent of their league games.

This Guy's No Gamecock

By Jeff Rhodes

Thomas Wolfe penned the famous line, "You can never go home again," but Clemson's Joe Glenn has returned home—and won.

Last season, when Clemson downed South Carolina for the Tigers' eleventh consecutive win, Glenn, a native of Columbia, played an instrumental role in that 29-13 win as he made two tackles for loss in the final stages of Carolina's comeback attempt.

"There is always a lot of excitement for me when we play them," Glenn understated. "The excitement is already building up because this is my last year. I went to the South Carolina-Richmond game earlier this year and I told my friends, 'I'll be looking forward to seeing you again a little later on.'

"It's really strange, though," Glenn added thoughtfully. "I have never really caught a lot of grief from the people down there. Those people look at you a different way. They are interested in knowing what is going on outside of Columbia.

Glenn, at 6-3, 216 pounds, has been an on-and-off starter for the past three years, mainly due to injuries. But he has a firm grip on the defensive end position this season. "Even this year, I really didn't know I would be starting," Glenn said unassumingly. "I had experience and I had worked hard last spring and in fall practice, but I got hurt again and didn't know until the first game if I would start."

The low-key Glenn has never been among the Clemson tackle leaders in his four years, but he has a knack for coming up with big plays. In 1981's national championship season, Glenn broke up a pass, made six tackles for loss and five times he corralled opposing quarterbacks for 36 yards in sacks. His style of play is much like that of another former big play man at Clemson, Jonathan Brooks. "My freshman and sophomore year I tried to model my style of play after Jonathan Brooks," Glenn said. "A lot of people told me I played like him, so I modeled him in some respects. It worked very well for me." His biggest play may have come in the Orange Bowl when he separated Nebraska fullback Phil Bates from the ball deep in Cornhusker territory. Clemson was able to turn this timely turnover into a touchdown.

"We were in the Tiger Defense, which is a pass rush. I was moving sideways down the line of scrimmage when the back ran in the hole. The only thing I could hit was the ball, so I stripped him of it," Glenn said modestly. "I didn't even realize my name was in Sports Illustrated until a few people came up and told me about it."

For his career as a Tiger, Glenn has made 49 tackles, eight tackles for loss, six sacks, and he has caused two fumbles and recovered four.

While his statistics might not be impressive enough to win him the Lombardi Trophy, Glenn is still pretty happy about the way things worked out. "My first goal when I came to Clemson was to get an education and I've done enough in my athletic career to say I'm satisfied. I've been a part of a team that has won the national championship and I've helped to beat teams like Nebraska and Notre Dame. That game was definitely a highlight. I used to think Notre Dame was a team that could never lose. I never thought I would ever see them play, much less beat them on their home field."

One may get the impression that Joe Glenn doesn't have a whole lot to say about himself. "I'm a very quiet person," said Glenn. "A lot of people let their words speak for them. I try to let my actions on the field speak for me. You start talking too much and it will mess you up.

"I remember last year I had a run-in with Boogie (Jeff Bryant)," Glenn said with a slight smile. "He was running around trying to get everyone fired up and I said to him, 'Do I have to talk to get fired up?' and he didn't like that too much. If I get too emotional, I can't concentrate on what I am doing. I don't want to get too far into it.

"I am a quiet leader, I hope. I would like to think that the freshmen look up to me and say, 'Well, he's doing it right, so I'll just follow his lead.' I am definitely not the gung-ho Andy Headen type of player," Glenn mused.

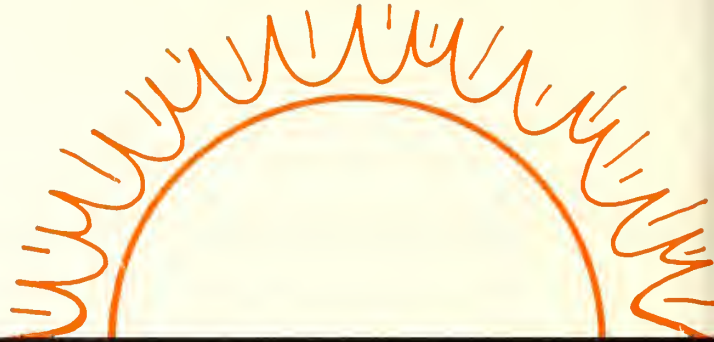

As for his future plans, Glenn says, "I'd like to try and play pro football, if they still play next year. I'm not building my whole future on it, though. If the chance comes along, I'll take it. I believe in letting what's going to happen, happen.

"I would like to end my career the way Willie Underwood did two years ago against Carolina with two interceptions and a touchdown or something like it. That would be an exciting way to go out," Glenn concluded.

He first has to solve the problem of rounding up enough tickets to the Clemson-Carolina game for his family and friends, though.

A TIGER WITH A HEART

Dear Athletic Director,

The heart can feel so deeply what words can never say. Yes, the loss to Georgia was truly heartbreaking and I shared my tears unashamedly with our other loyal fans. But that is behind us now. A stepping stone or a stumbling block, however one chooses to view it. I know it will be a stepping stone. We are a class organization who learns from mistakes and grows in adversity. Against tremendous odds, we "claw" our way back! We always have. We always will. This unique quality is what sets us apart from the others—our genuine love for the Clemson Tigers. Win, lose or draw, they have given so much. For their blood, sweat and tears we owe them a great debt. We honor this debt with respect and loyalty, irregardless of the final outcome. We know they gave it their best shot—it is our privilege to be their fans. I only hope they know this. Soon, we will see the team standing on "the hill." The love, respect and pride of their fans will be there beside them. (Truly, there is something about those hills that holds together and binds together.) So, "Go Tigers," you've just begun to fight—your mighty roar shall indeed echo!

Sincerely,
Jeaneane Bishop
Charleston, SC

A TALL ORDER

Dear Coach Ford,

My name is Chris Byrd. I am 14 years old from Lanett, Alabama. I want to start off by saying I am glad Clemson won the national championship. And thanks for beating Georgia last year. Would you please send me an autographed picture of yourself. And ask your sports information department to send me a team picture, a picture of Perry Tuttle, posters, stickers, a yearbook of your team, etc.

Thank you,
Chris Byrd
Lanett, AL

ALL I NEED IS THE BOTTLE

Dear Clemson,

I'm glad you won the NCAA football championship. I am one of your fans who hope you can repeat last year's accomplishment. I was hoping that you can send me a sticker to put on my Dad's ear. I have your cans all I need is the bottle. I hope you can send me something so that I can order one. We all hope you win it all this year again. I hope you can send me a sticker and something so that I can order a bottle.

Just one of your many fans,
Matt Reilly
Greensboro, NC

HOW QUICKLY THEY FORGET

Dear Sir/Madam

I am a great fan of the Clemson Tigers. They are my favorite college team. I forgot which Bowl you won but could you send me that program or media guide. Good luck this year! Thank you. Clemson is numero uno.

Your best fan,
Mike Dorn
